One of the defining features of the Trump White House was its reputation for chaos. Unlike previous administrations that emphasized structured communication and hierarchical discipline, Trump's team often operated in a state of flux. The Trump administration was characterized by competing camps, such as the traditional conservative wing, the populist insurgents, and the personal advisors close to Trump himself. Interns often observed these factions vying for attention, leading to conflicts that sometimes spilled over publicly.

These internal disputes created a tense atmosphere, where loyalty and alliance-building became critical. Interns found themselves caught in the middle, sometimes asked to deliver messages or carry out tasks that reflected the ongoing power struggles.
